A New Back for an Old One—How a Resident Made a Bad Back Strong.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame that to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back if the kidneys are weak. You cannot reach the cause. Follow the example of this Barre citizen.

Thomas Desjardens, barber, 1 Union street, Barre, Vt., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me. They have done me a wonderful amount of good. I was troubled by a weak and lame back, and there were pains across my loins. At times my kidneys did not act regularly and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions when having these attacks, and they have always acted promptly, giving me relief. I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know they are a good kidney remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

BOYS AND GIRLS, SAVE YOUR NICKELS.

There is nothing that contributes more to health, happiness and long life than thrift.

Having this in mind, the Hyde Park Savings Bank has adopted ideas and methods with reference to promoting thrift in the mind of the Vermont boy—and the Vermont girl as well—which are regarded by some bankers as contrary to the rules of good banking.

In other words, the Hyde Park Savings Bank will receive deposits of any size, however small, because it believes that in so doing it is encouraging the boy and girl to become thrifty. Starting a bank account with a nickel or dime involves an absolute loss to the bank accepting so small a deposit, unless other deposits are made later on. But banks, although their managers do not always realize it, are incorporated for the public good, and so the Hyde Park Bank, realizing its duty to the general public, says to the boy or girl who is willing to begin saving, "Come on with your deposits, however small, the bank will take its chances on your becoming a larger banker later on."

Very few boys and girls realize the wonderful power of compound interest. The Hyde Park Bank pays four per cent. and compounds semi-annually and pays all taxes, and at this rate a boy commencing at ten years of age to save a dime a day, and continuing to save that sum, will have

At the age of 20 years,	$445.64
" " " 30 "	1,107.84
" " " 40 "	2,091.84
" " " 50 "	3,554.01
" " " 60 "	5,726.72
" " " 70 "	8,955.26
" " " 80 "	13,720.95

Which is the better, to spend this dime per day for cigarettes, beer, or other worse than useless things and late in life be a candidate for the poor-house, or to save it and be independent? The poet Burns expresses his idea of independence in the following lines addressed to a young friend. They may well be committed to memory by every boy and girl:

"To catch Dame Fortune's golden smile, Assiduous wait upon her; And gather gear by every wile That's justified by honor; Not for to hide it in a hedge, Nor for a train-attendant; But for the glorious privilege Of being independent."

Remember the Hyde Park Bank is conducted along strictest lines of safety and in its twenty-four years of existence has been so painstaking and conservative that it has never lost a dollar by a poor note.

Its managers are all Vermonters whom you know—men who never speculate nor deal with Wall Street in any way.

It is perfectly safe to send your money to the Hyde Park Bank by postal or express money order, registered letter or check. In its twenty-four years of business, not a dollar has ever been lost by any depositor sending his money to the Hyde Park Savings Bank.

Start a bank account to-day and become a banker. Your bank pass-book will be returned to you by first mail, and every courtesy and convenience which a bank can extend to its depositors, consistent with good banking, will be always cheerfully extended.

We have something in the way of a self-registering bank. Let us send you a leaflet describing it. Write for it.

Write for any particulars about which you desire information, addressing the president, Carroll S. Page, or the Treasurer, F. M. Culver, Hyde Park, Vermont.

EARLY HEROES LAUDED.

Secretary Daniels Spoke at Erie, Pa., Celebration.

Erie, Pa., July 11.—Exploits of America's early naval heroes were lauded as splendid examples proving that "The man is greater than the ship" here yesterday by Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, in an address at the Perry victory centennial celebration. The secretary told again the wonderful story of Oliver Hazard Perry's little improvised fleet and its triumph over the great British men-of-war under veteran officers; he recalled the inspiring death of Lawrence with the words "Don't give up the ship" but recently off his lips and still in his health, and he dwelt upon the magnificent daring of John Paul Jones.

"It is not always the highest training and skill which wins the battle, although we must not for a moment underestimate the value of these," Mr. Daniels said. "It was this marvelous initiative, this unconquerable will power which saved the day for the young republic at the battle of Lake Erie and gave Perry immortal fame. The man is greater than the ship. I am afraid there is danger in this day of technical things, this day of methods and models, and mechanisms, that we may get too far away from the idea that readiness and aptitude and initiative, alertness, to change the line of battle with changing circumstances in the fate of the fray, are vital to success."

"Perry wrote to the secretary of the navy before the battle, during his agonized efforts to get ready, 'Give me men, sir, and I will acquire both for you and myself honor and glory on this lake or perish in the attempt.' Men who mean to die if they don't succeed, usually win. God gives us the Jones and Perry spirit to-day."

"I am lifted up in admiration as I contemplate the results Perry achieved when the difficulties loomed up before him so large, so discouraging. He not only had his fleet to build but the big vessels to get across the bar from the bay into the lake, and that in the face of a blockade by the enemy; he had to change the line of battle with changing circumstances in the fate of the fray, are vital to success."

"There is a tremendously important lesson involved in this example that Oliver Hazard Perry has set us. In every avenue of life it applies. God pity the man who gives up. Life is too full of opportunities to 'throw up the sponge.' Despair is the knife that stabs success to the heart."

"The people of Erie have done well to raise the old hull of the Niagara and restore her to the form in which she appeared in the day of her glory, when she came into the great sea battle in the time of crisis, and snatched victory from defeat. I know that she was criticized for not getting into the battle at the first, but who can say that the Union Flag of human destinies was not in this, so that she was kept fresh and ready to come in as the reserve force and win the day. I have been greatly interested in the splendid work you people have done in raising her. As she goes up the lake this summer and fall, carrying the famous flag, with the immortal motto, and reminding the youth of the day of the glorious episode in which she played so important a part may fortune 'at upon her prosperous helm.'" and an unused portable chicken house scoured and kalsomined made a delightful kitchenette. A neighbor agreed to bake our bread and pies, care for the chickens and pigs, and milk our four Jersey cows, with the understanding that all the money she made from the cows would be hers.

"The understanding was that we must never mention the fact that we lived just across the creek. We were to pretend that we were off on a real camping trip. A few pickets removed from the garden fence enabled the children to make a daily raid on our garden vegetables, and an oil stove and fireless cooker simplified the preparing of meals."

A Country Boy Who Became the Employer of 7,000 Actors.

In the July American Magazine appears an interesting article about Lee Shubert, now at the head of the firm of Shubert Brothers. Twelve years ago three brothers—Sam, Lee and J. J. Shubert—went to New York from Syracuse and secured the lease of the Herald Square theatre. The city managers smiled indulgently and coughed behind their hands, meantime spreading a fine net to catch what fragments of cash they could after the little rural ballroom was punctured. The article goes on as follows:

"To-day the brothers are two—Lee and J. J.—and the pianissimo 'opry-house' from up-state is director of fifteen theatres in New York City, with three more to be added to the list before summer; furnishes attractions for one thousand theatres throughout the United States; owns theatres in the leading cities from coast to coast; is the employer of seven thousand folk of the stage; is having plans drawn for New York hippodromes in London and Berlin, and from his attractions receives a gross income of more than one million dollars per week.

"If a deceased brother was ever worshipped by those still in the flesh, the late Sam S. Shubert has that veneration. They have built and are continuing to build new theatres bearing his name. Lee speaks always of him as 'My poor brother!' generally with eyes teardimmed. Had Sam Shubert been a musician, he would have been a Mendelssohn, or in literature a Keats, for he began to do a man's work as a child, finished a lifetime's accomplishment and died, victim of a railway disaster at twenty-nine. The Shubert soul first turned to theatricals when tiny Sam became a program distributor in the Grand opera house at Syracuse. At twelve years of age he was treasurer of that theatre, standing upon a box to reach the ticket window as he sold. At seventeen he had three companies of his own upon the road, and for five years, a minor, conducted corporate business! At twenty-one he was ready to enter the metropolis. Meanwhile, he had plucked his brother Lee from a haberdasher's counter, had annexed J. J., and had finally interred a retired merchant of Syracuse, one J. W. Jacobs, who is still treasurer of the Shubert corporation."
